Basic Parliamentary Procedure

Official meetings for any ASB recognized clubs must be function under the conventions of basic Parliamentary Procedure. It is important to review and practice; each member needs to be fully informed and equipped to participate effectively in meetings.

- President, or designee in his/her absence, calls meeting to order
- The Secretary, or designee, records minutes of the meeting. Minutes from prior meeting should be approved at the beginning of each meeting.
- Only those who get recognized by the chair may speak during a meeting which has “come to order.”
- Side conversations are not allowed; if someone wants to speak, it should be to the whole group (unless someone gets permission from the president to have a small side conversation for the purpose of furthering the meeting)
- In order to discuss something the group needs to vote on, someone other than the president has to make a motion or proposal (“I move that…”)
- The president or designee facilitates the conversations, seeking input from all members
- The minutes need to reflect who makes motions, who seconds them and what exactly the motions are. The secretary may ask for clarifications at any time
- If there is no second, the motion will not be discussed
- If there is a second, the president calls on people to speak for or against the motion
- If someone who supports the basic motion wants to suggest a change within the motion, he/she may make a “friendly amendment” in the form of a new motion. If they do not agree with the motion, they may express disagreement and recommend it not be approved.
- The motion to make a friendly amendment either gets a second and the newly altered motion gets discussed or it dies and discussion returns to the original motion.
- The president usually sets a time limit for consideration of a motion and may ask speakers to:
  - wrap up their point soon and/or
  - only speak if they have new thoughts on the topic
- If a motion is seconded, it then proceeds to a vote
- Once a vote is taken by eligible voting members, the secretary announces the number of votes “for” and “against”
- The president then gives directions or requests that appropriate action is taken by whoever is responsible to act on the motion that has been “passed.”
- At the end of the meeting, the president adjourns

Of significance:
- All conversations are directed by the president or his/her designee.
- All participants communicate with one another in an extraordinarily polite manner.
- Any potential expense or potential fundraiser MUST be approved through the motions/voting process and be documented in club minutes!
- Minutes are typed by the secretary or designee, and distributed to other board members. Minutes must be approved at the following meeting.
- All club minutes are turned over to the ASB Executive Council, and are kept on file along with theirs
